INDIA METEOROLOGICAL DEPARTMENT

Memorandum regarding the probable amount of monsoon rainfall in 1947

Previous weather conditions over certain parts of the world enable us to form an estimate, within somewhat wide limits, of the monsoon rainfall in India during the period June to September. All predictions of this type should aim to pass a statistical test of 80 per cent. success, or, in other words, to be correct four times out of five on the average over a long series of years. In some years, however, the known factors give conflicting indications and the risks arising then from the unknown factors either prevent the issue of any forecast of practical value or else force the issue of a forecast with less than the customary four-to-one chance of success.

This year information regarding Java rainfall is incomplete and has therefore not been used. Dutch Harbour temperature data for March 1947 are not available. The available data are given in section 2 below; these are followed by notes on the relevant inferences that may be drawn from them.

2. DATA.

Snow in the mountain region northwest of India :—Snowfall reports indicate that over the western Himalayas as a whole the accumulations at the end of May were normal.

Equatorial pressure :—Pressure was in excess by 0".004 at Port Darwin from March to May and in defect by 0".003 at Seychelles in February and March and by 0".020 at Batavia from January to April.

South Rhodesia :—Rainfall from October 1946 to April 1947 was in defect by 13".1.

South America :—Pressure departures were as follows :—

	Buenos Aires	Cordoba	Santiago (Chile)
April 1947	+0.8 mm.	+0.9 mm.	—0.2 mm.
May 1947	+0.3 mm.	+0.5 mm.	+1.0 mm.

Aleutian Islands :—The monthly temperature departures in degrees Fahrenheit at Dutch Harbour from December 1946 to April 1947 were +2.0, —1.7, +0.4, —and +2.5 respectively.

3. INFERENCES FROM THE INFORMATION.

For the Peninsula (taken to consist of Gujarat, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, the Central Provinces, Hyderabad and the north Madras Coast) the available factors found to be of most importance are, in the order of decreasing reliability, rainfall in South Rhodesia, pressure in South America and Dutch Harbour temperature. This year South Rhodesia rain is very favourable, South American pressure favourable and Dutch Harbour temperature slightly unfavourable. The statistical analysis indicates that there is a four-to-one chance that the rainfall will not fall below 104 per cent. of the average in the Peninsula.

For Northwest India (taken to consist of the west United Provinces, the Punjab, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province and Rajputana) the factors used are, in the order of decreasing reliability, South Rhodesia rain, South American pressure, Equatorial pressure, Dutch Harbour temperature and snowfall accumulations in the western Himalayas. Of these South Rhodesia rain and South American pressure are very favourable, Equatorial pressure and snowfall accumulations indifferent, and Dutch Harbour temperature moderately unfavourable. There is a four-to-one chance that the rainfall in Northwest India will not fall below 104 per cent. of the average.

4. SUMMARY OF FORECAST.

There is a five-to-one chance that the monsoon rainfall of June to September 1947 will be above normal both in the Peninsula and Northwest India.

Director General of Observatories.
